A new cave has been discovered in Boone Township, Harrison county. A correspon dent writes to the New Albany Ledger, last week a party consisting of ladies and gentlemen first entered the cave, where they discovered the osseous remains of Squire Boone, a cousin of Daniel Boone, buried in 1810. Booge was a pioneer of the county, and was laid in the cave at his request. Forty years ago some Eastern relatives visited his tomb and saw the remains, since which time until now the mouth of the cave has been closed. The party penetrated the big cave for some distance, and found it grand and beautiful beyond description.

A Hamburg letter says the people there are quite reconciled to the blockade, adopting their business to its requirements.

The Morning Post says semi-officially that no peace negotiations are on foot. The government is satisfied that France will not treat for peace until she is done retreating. All turns on the capture of Paris.

The Post also denies the story recently published of the presence of Prince Murat in Eng-

There was fighting all day on Thursday, near Mars la Tour.

The Times publishes a special telegram from Berlin this morning, which contains the following intelligence: The French army has been separated by victory of the Prussians at Mars la Tour. The main body has been forced back on Metz, and brought to a stand, by the extreme right of the army.

A battalion of the Seventy-third Regiment of the Line was destroyed by a regiment of Lancers, who took their colors.

There have been many brilliant cavalry charges, in one of which General Legrand was killed at the head of his division. General Montague is missing.

The Prussian Generals Doering and Wedel were killed, and Generals Groonter and Von Rauck were wounded. Prince Albert, comnding the Prussian cavalry, was killed. The following morning we were masters of the position occupied by the enemy. On the morning of the 17th, several combats took place near Gravelette.

The force of the enemy in the battle of the 16th approximated one hundred and fifty thousand.

We have not yet got the exact figures of 8:30 A. M.-A part of the French army has been forced back to Metz. Its position there is regarded as very critical. It is believed that preliminary negotiations for peace are under discussion here. FRANCE.

PARIS, August 19.—In the Corps Legislatif

last evening Count de Palikao, Minister of War, took the floor, and in response to an inquiry made an explanation in relation to the fact that General Trochu being declared Governor of Paris, was regarded by the govern-ment as a wise movement. He said to con-fide the defense of the city of Paris to a person eminently qualified to increase the security of peace in the minds of the citizens General Trochu would be replaced in command of his

The reserves were formerly under his com mand. Count de Polikao then informed the corps that it was certain the Prussians had suffered severely in the late engagements. Their center had been especially crippled. They had to retreat to St. Michael but were able to effect a junction with the Prince Roy-al. An entire regiment of white cuirassiers under command of Count von Bismarck was totally destroyed.

Serious Illness of Vanderbilt-Import-ant War News-Russia and England New York, August 19.-Last evening, as

Commodore Vanderbilt was about entering his room at Congress Hall, Saratoga, he fell a demonstration of students yesterday at Moscow against Prussia, and the repressive measures of the Rrussian authorities, against the German and Swedish inhabitants of Esthania and Courland are reported to be increasing in severity. Active negotiations, the purpose of which is unknown, is going on between St. Petersburg and Vienna. A special agent from Canstantinople dispatched by the new Turkish minister is daily expected in London. The Prince and Princess of Wales are unusually harmonious in their almost open sympathy with the French, the Prince's feeling is believed to rest on his great dislike of his brother-in-law the Crown Prince of A dispatch dated London, 19, 11:30 A. M. says the Daily News of this morning contains a dispatch from Brussels which says that Napoleon is suffering from febrile monomania. He cries out that he has been betrayed.

The London Times says a dispatch from Berlin states that the French armies are separated at Mars la Tour and the main army at Metz is checked by the second and third armies of the Prussians. The Crown Prince with the Third Army Corps is now marching to attack Frossard atiChalons.

The dispatch adds that Marshal Bazaine must cut his way through the German army, or the Army of the Rhine must capitulate.

The Telegram's specials from Carlsrusche says the demands of the King of Prussia are stated to be, first, that he be elected Emperor of Germany. Second-That the Province of Alsace, together with the city of Strasbourg be given to the Grand Duchy of Baden. Third-That Bayaria receive full money compensation in consideration of her services and expenses in the war. Fourth-That Napoleon III be deposed, and that an Orleans Prince be placed upon the throne of France.

The feeling in England and Germany is universal in favor of these conditions. The following dispatch was just received at Accidents at Dayton.

DAYTON, August 19 .- Mike O'Connell, residing near Sonora, in Preble county, while in an intoxicated condition drew a large knife and attempted to stab his wife, who escaped by throwing herself from a window to the ground, a distance of over ten feet. She was seriously injured by the fall. The neighbors were so incensed that the offender barely escaped being lynched.

Martin Maloney, a laborer, was instantly killed by being run over by a gravel and wood train on the Dayton and Michigan Railroad. He fell beneath the cars in endeavoring to rescue a fellow workman, and was crushed to death.

WEST VIRGINIA.

Fire at Wheeling. WHEELING, August 19 .- A fire broke out in the second story of Anderson's shoe store last night, destroying the wood-work on the second and third stories. A large stock of boots in the second story were pretty effectually destroyed between the fire and water. The goods and safe were successfully removed from the first floor. The origin of the fire is a mystery. The Grant House opposite, and Mayor McClellan's residence ad-oining, made a narrow escape. The loss is from $5,000 to $8,000, partially insured. The camp meeting at Moundsville com-menced Wednesday last, and is largely attended.

> NEW YORK. Fire at Auburn.

AUBURN, August 19.—At 12 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the sash and blind factory and planing mill of Evarts Brothers, which was of wood, and the valuable machinery contained in it was destroyed. The loss is $150,000 and the insurance $80,000.

MASSACHUSETTS. Fire at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, August 19 .- A fire broke out about 10 o'clock last night in Richmond's stables, on Sanford street, and spread rapidly to Walker & Sceery's blocks, on the same street, both of which were destroyed. The loss is heavy. Train on Society.

George Francis gave his ideas of society as at present constituted, to the Salt Lake Mormons, at their tabernacle on his recent visit to Utah, as follows:

Society is organized hypocrisy. Crime is not hideous, but it is getting found out. "Take the money out of his pocket," said Smike, "but don't break the law." "Do not pick up that flower in the path, or steal a peach in the yard, the policeman may see you." "John, don't play marbles there in the street; it is Sunday; come in and play in the back yard!" "Is it not Sunday in the back yard!" "Is it not Sunday in the back yard!" "Is it not Sunday in the back yard!" "Yes, pa." "Have you watered the rum!" "Yes, father." "Have you watered the rum!" "Yes father." "Then come to prayers." "George, have you charged that flour?" "Yes uncle," "Charge it again before you forget it."

In the Sympathy with France.

The London News says: "Most Englishmen profess themselves unable to understand the recent outburst of Irish sympathy with the cause of France in the present European quarrel. Measured simply by the standard of material expediency and rational policy, it is doubtless unintelligible. France and Ireland in the present day have no aims or interest in common, nor are they likely to have any. Apparently, the only substantial bond between the two nations is the possibility that the imperial government may be involved in a war with England, and may try to strike a blow at this country through Ireland."

The New York Commercial says that Mr. August Belmont's nervous manner of winking his eyes nearly got him into a scrape at Sarating at her, and called on her husband to extinguish the offender. But the husband, who his room at Congress Hall, Saratoga, he fell in an apoplectic fit. He was immediately carried in the room and medical aid was summoned. Two physicians from this city have gone up. No one is allowed to see Mr. Vanderbilt, and the physicians are constantly at his bedside. Every effort is being made to keep the affair quiet and hush it up. It is supposed that the excitement of the races brought on the attack, and from appearances the Commodore lies in a very precarious condition. His family have been summoned to his bedside.

The Cowardly World.

The Pottsylle Standard says, with trath, that "a drunkard, no matter how big his heart and generous impulses, is despised by the public because he is so great a fool as to be his own greatest enemy, and is too weak to do injury to others. On the other hand, the thief in trade, the liar and deceiver in business, the social 'cusses,' the slanderer, the backbiter, the religious hypocrite, and the plotting libertine, are feared and let alone by the public, where they are not openly adored and commended, because of their 'sharpness, 'shrewdness in business,' 'zeal,' 'intelligence,' good looks' and 'accomplishmenst.' The world's agreed to deptit the properties of the public, where they are not openly adored and commended, because of their 'sharpness, 'shrewdness in business,' 'zeal,' 'intelligence,' good looks' and 'accomplishmenst.' The world is a great overgrown coward, and never attacks a man or a woman until he or she has fallen and become too weak to do battle.''

FROM WASHINGTON.

The War News.

WASHINGTON, August 18 .- There has been Washington, August 18.—There has been more excitement among all classes here to-day over the war news than at any time since the struggle began. No official dispatches have been received giving later information than has been already published. At the Legations, where the organizations of both armies are best known, it is believed by most that the bulk of the French army has been shut up in and around Metz since Sunday, and that but a small part has yet succeeded in breaking away from the Prassian lines and gaining Verdun. In the battle of Saturday last, of Metz, the attacking army was that of General Steinmetz, which drove the French into their works. into their works.

The retreat of the French on Verdun began on Sunday, but was checked by the army of Frederick Charles, which had crossed to the west of the Moselle, near Pont-a-musson. The west of the Moselle, near Pont-a-musson. The battle on Tuesday was between Triate's part of the army of General Bazaine and Frederick Charles. To-day the arrival of the Prussians at Briey is regarded as an advance of the army of General Steinmetz, which, having crossed the Moselle below Metz, seeks to make a junction with Frederick Charles, between Verdun and Metz. In the meantime, it is believed the army of the Crown Prince, nearly intact, is on the line of railroad near Bar-le-Duc awaiting the results of the action in progress around Verdun, and that thus far ne considerable part of his army has been detailed in that direction. ed in that direction

We have lately printed several practical cautions against the use of jute switches, publishing, among other items, an account of a fatal result in Waterville. Mr. J. P. Smith, the hair-dresser, No. 100 Exchange street, showed us last evening one of the vermin which he took, vesterday, from a Japanese switch, and it is one of the most repulsive looking insects that we wish to see. It is smaller than the body of a flea, but put under an ordinary microscope was magnified to a length of nearly three-quarters of an inch. It is of a brown color, semi-opaque, with nearly as many legs as a centipede. Projecting from the head are two horns, half as long as the creature, curved like the horns of an ibex, corrugated like the feelers of a lobster. Attached to the rear part of the body are two pairs of claws, in two parts, the upper closing over the lower, like a parrot's bill. The jaws appear to be of extraordinary power; and altegrating the sight of such a greature and altegrating the sight of such a greature together the sight of such a creature causes together the sight of such a creature causes one to involuntarily shrink. We hear that several ladies in this vicinity have discovered these things in their switches; and we give this additional caution to discard this silly and unsafe style of hair dress. Mr. Smith has this specimen at his rooms, and those who are curious to investigate and study the structure of the animal are at liberty to do so.—

California Tarantulas.

A California paper tells the following tarantula story, which the credulous may believe if they likes I want if they like:

A few days since, while walking on the levee, we discovered a large tarantula also taking an airing. Its size was unusual, and we resolved upon its capture, but immediately upon touching it with our stick its size diminished one half, and minute specks were seen running in every direction; these, upon examination, proved to be young tarantulas and almost infinitesimally small. We counted over one hundred and fifty of them. We withdrew a few steps, and they gradually recollected on the back of the old one, when she immediately marched off.

Dissolution of Co-partnership.

F. J. Allday, of Bainbridge, Georgia, publishes the following card in the Sun, of that city: "I feel it my duty to say to the public that, owing to Whisky and Fool, a few weeks ago, I acted in bad faith toward my wife, in making accusations against her that are entirely without foundation; and, as said accusations have reached the public ear. I feel it my tirely without foundation; and, as said accusa-tions have reached the public ear, I feel it my duty as a husband to correct them publicly; which I freely do, by saying that I am wrong and she is right. And, now, Since Whisky, Fool & Allday have dissolved co-partnership, I have been made to see my errors, of which I heartily repent, and would say, that a better woman, or wife, or step-mother never lived— and let all the shame rest on me."

Irish Sympathy with France.

The New York Commercial says that Mr. August Belmont's nervous manner of winking his eyes nearly got him into a scrape at Saratoga. A certain lady imagined he was winking at her, and called on her husband to extinguish the offender. But the husband, who knew Belmont's peculiarity, answered: "You little fool! That's Belmont. He never winked at a woman in his life." That's very good, but we think we have heard that Mr. Belmont's lameaus arose from his having been wounded in a duel, "all about a woman," with young Heyward many years ago.—[Cincinnat' Enquire:

woman's rights as follows:

First—Woman was created expressly for man. Not for God, not for herself, not for humanity—but for man in the concrete—the traditional hungry man, who comes home from his business weary and irritable, and wants dinner, dressing-gown and slippers.

Second—Properly trained, she is a convenient and useful animal.

It is feared that the Chinese are such imitative creatures, that they may soon be picked up by the demagogues and ward politicias sof our large cities, and instructed how to carry elections. In organizing primaries for instance, and in manipulating ballot boxes their services would soon become invaluable. If our readers hear of any sudden desire to enfranchise John Chinaman, in the cities they will know what it is to be attributed to.

SECRETARY BOUTWELL seems to be insane in reference to funding the public debt. In a speech at Boston the other day he said it was not hazardous to predict that the funding would go on in spite of the European war, whereupon the New York Commercial Advertiser wants to know how people are going to be persuaded to pay par in gold for government bends bearing 4, 41/2 and 5 per cent. interest, when they can now purchase at eight per cent, below par, six per cent, gold bearing bonds? This is a very pertinent question, and one which no ordinary financier will attempt to answer.

HERE is something for the Revolution to glory about, but as it has no direct bearing upon woman suffra e, we doubt very much if the Revolution no ces it at all. The first female printer has been employed in the government printing office at Washington. Her name is Miss M. E. Green, of Alliance, O.

and she is said to be a very capable printer. A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, whom we are afraid some of the suffrage women will call a brute, cynically remarks: "As negroes are now employed by Mr. Clapp, the beautiful future so long prayed for has come to the government printing office, at least, when no distinction is made on account of race, sex, color or condition."

An exchange notes the fact that the present summer has been remarkable in a number of ways. There have been sun-spots of an unusual size, and consequently unusual electrical disturbances upon the earth, and, probably due to the same cause, a heated term coming at an unusually early period. The most ex-tensive earthquake wave on record was also felt extending from Mexico to the Pacific Islands. But in no respect has there been a more unusual manifestation than in the sharpness and fatality of the lightning. From all portions of the country reports of storms have contained accounts of death to men and animals from the electric fluid. Between the 8th and 29th of July there were forty destructive strokes of lightning in Wisconsin alone. The Milwaukee Sentinel says that "twenty men, women and children were killed, and thirteen injured, several so seriously that they can never entirely recover. Two hundred and thirteen horses, cattle, sheep and swine were killed; eight dwelling-houses and six barns and six houses and nine th no accompanying loss of were destre persons or animals." life either of

THE morning papers are quarreling a good deal now over personal matters, and their editorial columns are becoming filled with charges of eyil conduct or crimes against party opponents, and defenses of their friends. It may be their patrons pay for this sort of thing but we doubt it; nor do we believe that assertions as to the chastity or impurity of leading partisans will change many votes. It is none of our particular business, however, further than that we are interested in seeing Indianapolis journalism raised to a higher standard, in seeing a war of personalities where no good can result, abandoned, and in hearing the questions at issue discussed in a fair manly way. The Republican party as a body can bear pretty close scrutiny, but if the private habits and lives of some of its leaders are to be investigated and the party made to stand or fall by that, its exist e will not be prolonged much longer than that of the Democratic party if tried in the same way. There are bad men upon both sides, men who have no earthly conception of principle, and whose only aim is to look out for number one.

The War. The war news to-day maintains in the main its condition of obscurity and contradiction, but it is clear enough that the Prussians have met with no serious check yet, no matter what the French may say. They are advancing from three different directions and will probably form a junction at Chalons, where the French have been trying to do the same thing, but so far have been prevented. If the French can consolidate their troops, a most terrible battle will take place near Chalons, if indeed it has not commenced already, for each side will have an army of from three to five hundred thousand men. A decisive battle is desired by both the Prussians and the French and it can not fail to be a bloody one. In Paris there is the greatest activity exhibited in putting the city into a state of defense, but there is a great deal of excitement and discontent which A small miniature photographic apparatus a reverse may develop into something worse, has been invented, which gentlemen can The Bonapartes are beginning to leave, like rats deserting a sinking ship. Accounts of the battle of Woerth, which are beginning to come in, show that McMahon fought desperately against tremendous odds The largest estimate of his force is 35,000, while the smallest of the Prussians is 110,000, That he was placed in such a position, however, is the most satisfactory proof of the signal manner in which the French were outgeneraled, for while Napoleon was looking for an attack in one place and had concentrated his troops there, the enemy suddenly pounced upon McMahon miles away. The reports to-day indicate that Russia and England are becoming uneasy about the balance of power; the successes of Prussia, and the addition of territory, she proposes to make are alarming them considerably. In this connection it is worth noticing that the London News announces, semi-officially, that English hopes of succeeding in an intervention are abandoned.

The Lord of Castle Crazy.

 I dwell in Castle Crazy, And am its King and Lord,
 'Tis furnished well for all my needs—Cellar and, bed and board, And up in the fopmost attic
The farthest from the earth,
I keep my choicest treasures
And gems of greatest worth.

A nobly stocked museum
Of all that's rare and bright,
With plans—ah, many a thousand!
For setting the wrong world right;
Plans for destroying evil,
And poverty and pain,
And stretching life to a hundred years
Of vigorous heart and brain.

I've books in Castle Crazy
That solve the riddles of time,
And make old histories easy
With all their sorrow and crime.
Books that divulge all secrets
That science has ever thought,
And might lead us back to Eden
If men could ever be taught.

Plans for converting the heathens.
Plans for converting ourselves—
Perhaps the greatest of heathens!—
All in row on my shelves.
I've plans for transmuting pebbles
Into the minted gold,
And fixing dew into diamonds

Though Castle Crazy's open To all who wish to see, Very few people care to come And explore its depth with me.

Lotta is at present sojourning at Fontain-bleau, France, having visited London and Paris. She expects to sail for this country about August 20th, and will bring with her a new piece from the prolific pen of Dion Bou = cicault, for which she paid him a very liberal sum, we are informed. It will, probably, be produced at Niblo's Garden on September 15th, her opening night.

Miss Matilda Clarendon, a gifted young lady who figured prominently as a theatrical star in this country, some years since, but who retired from the stage for a while, is again about to return to her first love. During her absence from public life here, she has been abroad, studying under the best masters for the operatic stage, in which she has made great proficiency. Miss Clarendon's re-appearance will be as a dramatic and poetic reader, probably at Long Branch and Saratoga. The late N. P. Willis was a great admirer of Miss Clarendon, and in one of his notices of the young lady he writes: "Miss Clarendon is of the most fragile frame possible for beauty, and the lines of her face are delicate as to lose their effect, in a great neasure, at stage distance; but, near by; her ostrils have a war-horse-y inflation, and her mouth a cocked pistol resolution, that, (we have always thought), were given her by nature with the destiny they needed to protect. Withal, she is exceedingly beautiful and winning, and if she had been born a princess, she would have been the idol of a court. As it is she excites interest and sympathy wherever she goes, and though wholly unfitted to contend with the toil and crosses of her profess ion, she is full of natural genius, highly educated, an excellent writer, and of indo ambition, resolution and courage. We have long thought that this slight girl, with her of the most singular instances of dramatic real life we have ever seen."

Her father bears also the titles of Viscount Campden, Baron Barham, and Baron Noel, while her mother was a daughter of the Earl of Errol, one of the oldest Scotch peers. whose title dates as far back as 1453. Brought up in the lap of luxury, this high-born beauty resided under the paternal root in Exton Park, Rutlandshire, England. But a change came on the scene one day. The Earl engaged the services of a new organist to conduct the services in his private chapel. Whether the Lady Blanche was captivated by his manly form or by the heavenly strains which proceeded from his organ we know not. Within a short time, his organ we know not. Within a short time, however, the twain disappeared from Exton Park. Great was the lamentation in the bride's family when the elopement became known, and the fugitives were followed to London, but before they were seen the marriage knot had been tied.
